

Hello—

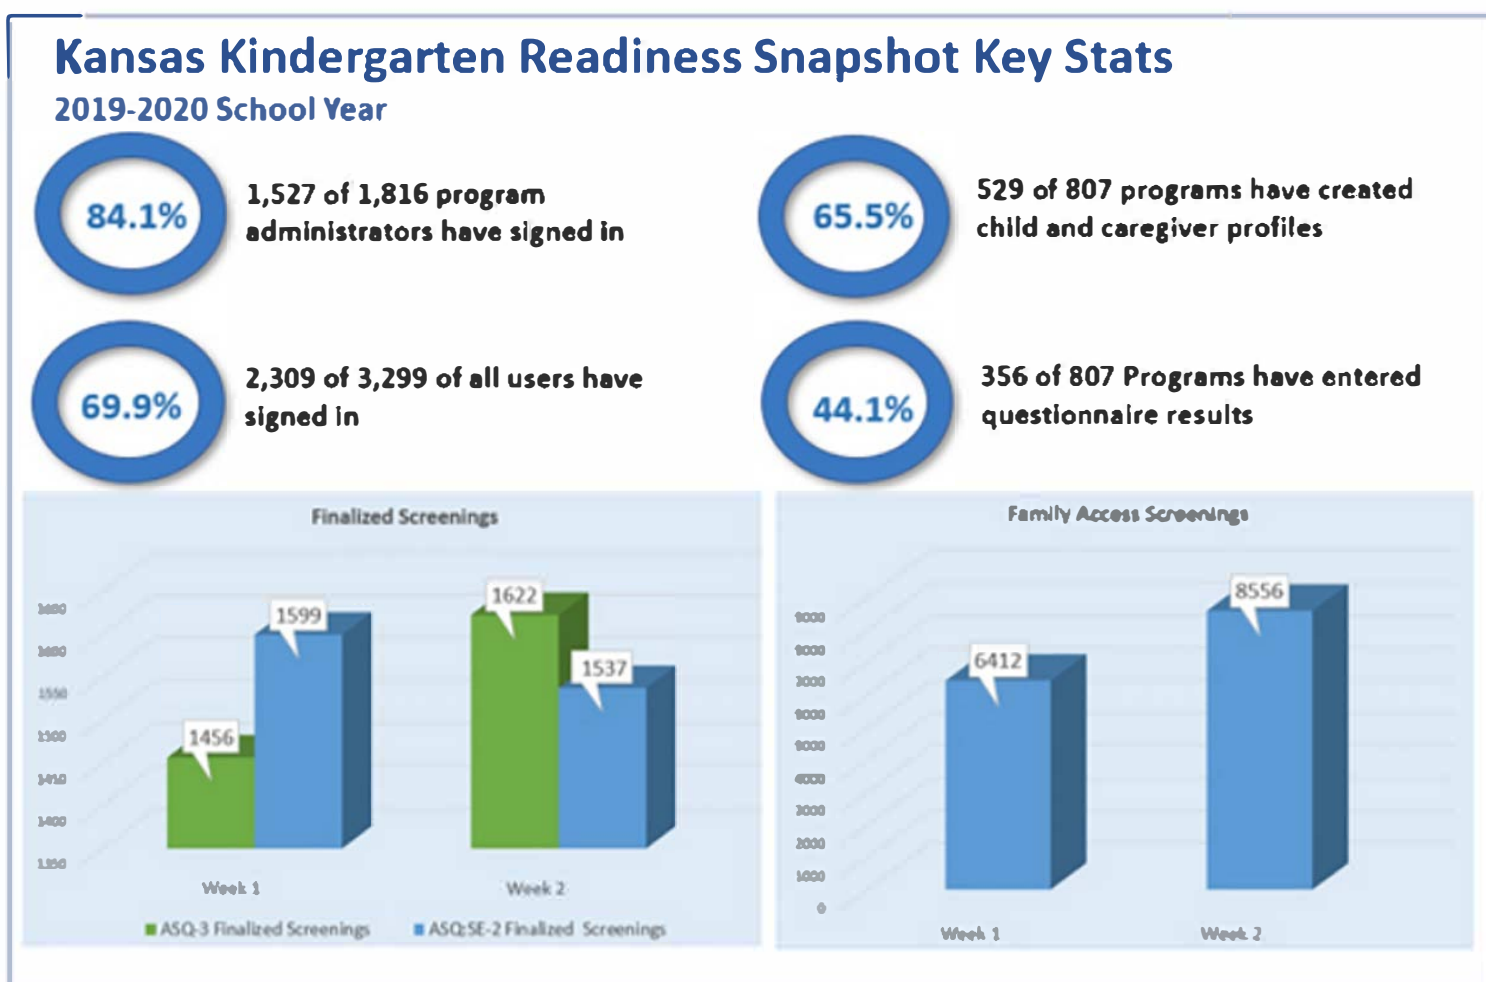

In this edition of the Kansas Kindergarten Readiness Snapshot News & Updates, we'll take you through the critical next steps after screening, from accurately interpreting ASQ®-3 and ASQ®:SE-2 results to sensitively communicating those results to parents and caregivers. The practical tools below will help you feel better prepared for your ASQ® follow-up meetings with families.

Quick tips for sharing ASQ results with families

Here are some key stats for the first two weeks of the Kansas Kindergarten Readiness Snapshot Initiative!

Do you know...how to plan for success after screening?

Whether a child's ASQ results are typical or close to or below the cutoff, parents and caregivers are likely to have plenty of questions for you: What do these results mean? Does my child really need to be referred for further assessment? Why wasn't the area of concern I brought up reflected in my child's score? Can my child be screened again? Read this article on recommended practices for better ASQ follow-up, and head into the all-important post-screening phase with confidence.

A message from KSDE

The beginning of kindergarten is an essential opportunity to build strong relationships with parents and families. The Kansas Kindergarten Readiness Snapshot recognizes the critical role parents and caregivers play in their children's development. KSDE would like to remind districts of resources that can help with family engagement:

The Kansas Parent Information Resource Center \(KPIRC\) promotes meaningful family engagement at all levels of education and provides information and resources to help parents, educators and other organizations promote the educational success of every Kansas child. Visit the KPIRC website for more resources.

The Kansas Family Engagement and Partnership Standards for Early Childhood provides guidance for early childhood providers and educators, families, communities, and educational systems on the effective engagement of families. This year KPIRC is leading work to develop best practices to accompany the standards, and we look forward to releasing that resource later this fall.
