Revitalizing Culture

Inunnguiniq – Making a Capable Human Being

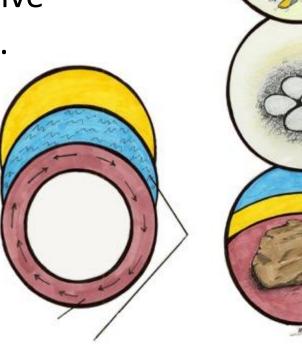

• Fully developing the child in all areas to create a level of strength that results in success and survival for both the individual and the group.

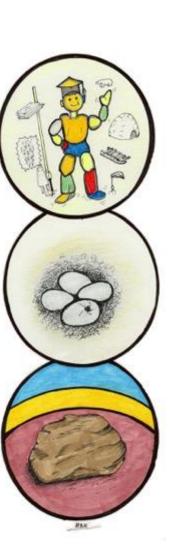

Inunnguiniq- Making a Human Being

We can enable children to become human beings by being respectful, loving and understanding while we set high expectations and support positive development.

We can make children to become like fragile eggs by being overly protective and taking away their responsibility for their own actions. Not setting expectations for them will lead to dependency.

We can make a harden rock-like person by neglecting a child's needs and treating him/her with too much negative criticism, making the child feel worthless. Setting expectations that a child is not yet ready to meet will teach them defeat.

Family is Everything -Supporting families is everyone's responsibility

The Goal – Supporting Families

Revitalize the cultural teaching about inunnguiniq Encourage parents to observe and interact with their children in supportive ways Provide language and culturally rich content and activities to use with children Support healthy child development

Martin Family Initiative – Early Years

Resilience begins with the relationship between a mother and her baby which supports learning through the critical first years of a child's life.

The way to break a cycle of social and systemic inequity is to begin before the cycle begins – The Early Year.

This is a project of possibility.
